

How to talk to SNAP E&T Participants about Florida Ready to Work: Sample Script

CareerSource Florida Network Employee: "Hi [Participant's Name], I want to introduce you to a program that can help you enhance your skills as you search for a job: Florida Ready to Work. It's designed to help you develop the essential workplace skills that employers value—things like communication, problem-solving, and teamwork.

"Through this free program, you can earn career readiness credentials that show employers you're prepared for success. These credentials can make a big difference, especially if you're looking to stand out and secure stable employment.

"The time you spend in this training will also count towards your monthly participation hours so that you can continue to receive your SNAP benefits."

Participant: "How does it work?"

CareerSource Florida Network Employee: "It's simple! You complete online training sessions at your own pace. The program helps you strengthen your career readiness skills needed for different industries. When you're ready, the next step is to schedule you for your Florida Ready to Work assessments so that you can earn your Florida Ready to Work Credentials.

"Employers across Florida recognize and respect the skills mastered to earn these credentials, meaning they could improve your chances of getting hired or promoted. Plus, if you're participating in the SNAP E&T or other workforce programs, this may align perfectly with helping you move toward long-term career success!"

Participant: "Do I have to pay for it?"

CareerSource Florida Network Employee: "No, it's completely free to you! It's all about helping you prepare for your career and giving you an advantage in the job market."

CareerSource Florida Network Employee: "It's time to get started. Here is the information you need to log in."
